

Staff photo by Jon Bolt

On the side...

Jason Hilling steadies himself against a dormer as he puts siding on a house in Princeton Thursday.

Staff photo by Eric DiNovo

Work continues...

Clear skies provide for the perfect opportunity to complete some work on the outside of the New Princeton Public Library Monday. Above, Philip Kee used a tool to remove the mortar from between the blocks of the structure.

Staff photo by Jon Bolt

Renovations...

Chris Hall cleans away an outer layer to reach the original surface of the front stairs at the old Princeton Post Office. While renovating and modernizing the post office for use as the new home of the of the Princeton Public Library, workers are careful to respect the building as an historic structure.